

Delivering business success through the continuous improvement of the capabilities of people and process

Supply Chain Groups

THE NEED:

Supply chain companies need to develop the strategies, skills and capabilities that will enable them to achieve sustainable continuous improvement, drive costs down and ensure quality and delivery targets are achieved.

THE SOLUTION:

Industry Forum Supply Chain Groups have been demonstrated to ensure a structured, aligned approach to sustainable continuous improvement. The use of a structured process facilitates open and frank discussions, provides high quality training and a momentum that could be otherwise lost with other pressures on company time. Suppliers are engaged in a constructive manner to stimulate business and process improvements and instil management and organisational skills for longer term benefits.
